Triton College Hosting Global Music Series

Concert Features Artists from Chicago's Old Town School of Folk Music

RIVER GROVE, Ill. – The Triton College Visual, Performing and Communication Arts Department is hosting a Global Music Series on Wednesday, Oct. 18, 7-8 p.m., in the Triton College Art Gallery, J Building (Room J-107). Admission is free.

This performance will feature Kolaam Dance, a group of teaching artists led by Senegalese artist, Idy Ciss. This family-friendly show is an interactive, live-drumming, heart-lifting, beat-making, earth-moving learning experience, with cultural expressions rooted in the dance traditions of Senegal. Audience participation is welcome!

“Through the Global Music Series, we offer free performances of exceptional quality,” said Salvatore Siriano, Triton’s lead music instructor. “Our concerts feature diverse programming that are accessible and enjoyable to music listeners of all ages.”

Siriano hopes that the Global Music Series exposes Triton students to diverse musical sounds to help them discover commonalities across ethnic traditions.
